Hello, Boston!

Synopsis

This board book about Boston from the creator of the bestselling "Journey Around" series, Martha Day Zschock, follows a parent and child duck as they explore the state capital of Massachusetts and New England's largest city. From Beacon Hill to the Old North Church, they learn about the city's history. They visit museums, run in the marathon, and eat some great New England food at Quincy Market. Of course, they cheer for New England's wonderful and winning sports teams! Whether riding on the T, watching the duck boats, or enjoying July 4th fireworks, our feathered tour guides will remind children and parents (and grandparents) of a great visit to Boston. For ages 2-5. Made in the USA.

Customer Reviews

Great book that highlights Boston while being an adorable and appropriate read for babies. My 6 month old twins love it. Highly recommend.

Cute children's book series. The duck character is appealing to young children. Loved the ending of the book. Will buy the Journey around as well.

I got this as a gift for a little girl. The mom loved it! I love that it is local and colorful.

nice book to introduce boston, i have a 9 month old and the text is a bit long but he loves the pictures.

Great book! My nephew and nieces love it and love learning about where Aunt Lora lives! :)

Recently moved to Boston and this is a go-to baby gift for me now. Adorable little book!
